Course outline	This program offers some basic issues on the nature and philosophy of research and possibilities of approaching a research problem from different perspectives (qual, quan and mixed).
Course objectives	The purpose of the current program is to define the fundamental assumptions of research and help learners approach research from multiple perspectives. The major paradigms of research including qualitative, quantitative and mixed research will be introduced and each one would be discussed in details in terms of ideological, methodological (data collection, data analysis) mechanisms.
Learning outcomes	By the end of this semester, the participants are expected to have developed: An understanding of the difference between qualitative, quantitative and mixed method research An understanding of which method(s) best suit(s) the research questions they have in their minds An understanding of which data collection, data analysis procedure and instruments would suit their topics of interest

Policy /Assessment	Assessment The course participants are expected to understand that the assessment system of this program is made up of both formative and summative components. This means that the overall score you will get at the end of this program would not be based upon your performance in exams perse (mid-term and final). The quality of your classroom participation, the way you will deal with your weekly assignments (including summaries, presentations, group work, etc.) will also make 30 percent of your overall score. Hence, it is expected that all participants pay due attention to each component of the assessment fairly and do their best in fulfilment of the expectations. If you feel that any of these requirements sounds vague and you are not sure of what you are expected to do, do not hesitate to ask for clarification from the course instructor as soon as possible.  Course policies Full-time students are expected to attend all elements of their courses unless they are sick or have permission of their School Dean. In general, to be eligible for taking exams students should not miss more than 30% of the class hours. In addition, the students are expected to be in the classroom ready to work at the appointed hour. It is the students’ responsibility to be on time, ready and attentive. Continuing and unexcused absence or lack of participation may lead to withdrawal from the course. All forms of cheating and plagiarism are strictly banned. If 25% plagiarism is found in a submitted assignment, the student gets no point for it. If the student submits the assignment later than due time, 20% of the grade for that assignment is subtracted. The student whose behavior is disruptive either to the instructor or other students will be removed from the team.
